- 10 (b) conduct credit operations with licensed banks and other market participants operating in Sri Lanka, based on adequate collaterals; or
- (c) issue securities on such terms and conditions and in such form as may be determined by the Monetary Policy Board.

15 (2) The Monetary Policy Board may make rules specifying–

- (a) the types of instruments and collateral to be used for open market and credit operations for the purpose of the monetary policy;
- 20 (b) the conditions under which the Central Bank may enter into transactions for the purposes of paragraph (a).

(3) The Governing Board may make rules specifying–

- 25 (a) the types of instruments and collateral to be used for credit operations other than the monetary policy; and
- (b) the conditions under which the Central Bank may enter into transactions for the purposes of paragraph (a).

33. (1) The Central Bank shall require—

Regulation of reserves of the financial institutions.

(a) the licensed commercial banks; and

5 (b) such other financial institutions falling under such criteria as may be prescribed by the Monetary Policy Board (in this Act referred to as the “relevant financial institutions”),

to maintain reserves against their deposit liabilities and such of their other financial liabilities as the Monetary Policy 10 Board may consider necessary and shall, for that purpose, prescribe the classes of deposit liabilities and the categories of other financial liabilities against which reserves are required to be maintained.

(2) The reserves required to be maintained by a licensed 15 commercial bank or a relevant financial institution under subsection (1), shall be proportionate to the volumes of each class of its deposit liabilities and each category of its other financial liabilities and shall, subject to subsection (3), take the form of rupee deposits in the Central Bank.

20 (3) The Monetary Policy Board may, in the interest of the national economy and the banking and financial systems of Sri Lanka, demand the maintenance of any part of the reserves required to be maintained, in the form of assets other than rupee deposits in the Central Bank.

25 34. (1) The Monetary Policy Board shall prescribe the reserve ratios applicable to each class of deposit liabilities and each category of other financial liabilities against which reserves are required to be maintained under subsection (1) of section 33 and may, from time to time, vary such ratios as 30 it may consider necessary.

Monetary Policy Board to prescribe reserve ratios.

(2) Where any licensed commercial bank or relevant financial institution is required to maintain a reserve against any class of deposit liabilities or any category of other financial liabilities, the Central Bank shall, if so determined by the Monetary Policy Board, in the interest of the national economy and the banking and financial systems of the country, pay to such licensed commercial bank or relevant financial institution, as the case may be, interest at such rate as may be determined by the Monetary Policy Board, on the amount maintained as a reserve or a part thereof.

(3) Where the reserves maintained by any licensed commercial bank or relevant financial institution are below the reserves required to be maintained by such licensed commercial bank or relevant financial institution, such licensed commercial bank or relevant financial institution shall pay to the Central Bank, an interest on the amount of the deficiency at such rate as may be determined by the Monetary Policy Board.

35. Where a licensed commercial bank or a relevant financial institution regularly fails to maintain the reserves required to be maintained by such licensed commercial bank or relevant financial institution under subsection (1) of section 33, the Monetary Policy Board may, in the interest of the national economy, make order—

Consequences

- 5 (a) under such rate which shall not be below one-year Treasury Bill rate prevailing for the time being; and
- 10 (b) for a period not exceeding a period of ninety-one days that may be renewed following a decision by the Central Bank for another period not exceeding a period of ninety-one days.

(2) The Central Bank shall provide such financial assistance on the basis of a programme specifying the remedial measures:

- 15 Provided, however, that no such commitment shall be made by the Central Bank unless such financial institution, in the opinion of the Governing Board, is solvent and can provide adequate collateral to support the loan, and the request for financial assistance is based on the need to
- 20 improve liquidity.

- (3) The renewal of credit facilities granted under subsection (2) shall, after the initial ninety-one days, require a Government guarantee in writing securing their repayment. The maximum renewal period shall be ninety-one days upon
- 25 which the credit operations shall be repaid.

(4) The Governing Board shall determine the type and minimum value of the collateral to be deposited or provided for to secure credit operations granted or renewed under this section.

- 30 (5) If the Central Bank discovers that the assisted financial institution did not implement the remedial measures specified in subsection (2), or that such measures did not achieve the results intended, the Central Bank shall take appropriate measures including the administrative measures provided for in section 109.

PART VI

PAYMENT AND SETTLEMENT SYSTEMS

60. (1) The Central Bank may establish and operate one or more systems—

Establishment of systems for transfer of funds and transfer and settlement of scripless securities.

- 5 (a) for the transfer of funds by and between the Central Bank, licensed commercial banks and such other institutions or persons that maintain a settlement account with the Central Bank and who are admitted as participants to such system by the Central Bank;
- 10 (b) for the transfer and settlement of scripless securities by and between the Central Bank and direct participants;
- 15 (c) for the settlement of payment obligations in respect of transfer and settlement of scripless securities under paragraph (b);
- 20 (d) for the maintenance of a depository for recording of title to scripless securities of the Central Bank, of direct participants, in the case of dealer direct participants, of their customers. The Central Bank may make such rules as it may consider necessary in relation to the depository.

(2) A system established under subsection (1) may be linked to another system in Sri Lanka or elsewhere for the clearing or settlement of payment obligations or securities, and the Central Bank may enter into agreements with the operators of any of such systems.

(3) (a) The Central Bank shall provide facilities for clearance transactions among licensed commercial banks operating in Sri Lanka or any other financial institutions as may be approved by the Governing Board.

(b) The reserves maintained by licensed commercial banks in the Central Bank or the funds maintained in the Central Bank by any financial institution as may be approved by the Governing Board shall serve as a basis for the clearance
5 of cheques and the settlement of balances among such banks and financial institutions in accordance with such rules as may be made in that behalf by the Central Bank.

(4) The Central Bank may enter into agreements with the participants of a system established under subsection (1) 10 and issue in writing to the participants of the system, rules for the operation of the system.

(5) Without prejudice to the generality of subsection (4), such rules may provide—

- 15 (a) for the provision of intra-day credit against the collateral of securities to the participants and the conditions attaching to the provision of such credit;
- (b) for the appointment of the Central Bank as a certification authority for the purpose of issuing certificates to participants under any law applicable 20 to the appointment of certification authorities in respect of electronic signatures;
- (c) for the formulation and adoption of a code of conduct for participants;
- 25 (d) for the authentication of transactions carried out electronically;
- (e) for the Central Bank, if it considers necessary in the interest of the system, to cease or suspend the operation of the system, or to withdraw or suspend the privileges or rights of any participant or 30 category of participants or to suspend or revoke the membership in the system of a participant;

(f) for the appointment of auditors or inspectors for the auditing or inspection of the operating systems of participants in respect of the settlement system; and

5 (g) for the payment of charges and fees to the Central Bank by the participants.

(6) A payment or transfer made through a system established under subsection (1), is final and irrevocable—

10 (a) in the case of a transaction involving a funds transfer only, upon the settlement account of the participant requesting the funds transfer being debited;

15 (b) in the case of a transaction involving a securities transfer only, upon the securities account of the participant requesting the securities transfer being debited;

20 (c) in the case of a transaction involving both a funds transfer and a securities transfer, upon debiting the settlement account or the securities account of a participant requesting the funds transfer or the securities transfer as the case may be, whichever occurs earlier,

25 and notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any other written law, such payment or transfer shall not be required to be reversed, repaid or set aside and no court shall order such payment or transfer to be rectified or stayed.

(7) (a) Any scripless securities issued under this Act or the Local Treasury Bills Ordinance (Chapter 417) or the Registered Stock and Securities Ordinance (Chapter 420)
30 shall be transferred, pledged, encumbered, lent, borrowed or transacted in only as provided by or under the rules made under this Act or regulations made under the Local Treasury Bills Ordinance or the Registered Stock and Securities Ordinance, as the case may be.

5 (b) A transfer, pledge, encumbrance, loan, borrowing or transaction effected under paragraph (a) shall be valid and effectual notwithstanding anything in any other written law, and the claim of a participant of the system on any scripless securities posted as collateral in accordance with those rules or regulations as may be applicable shall have priority over 10 the claims on such scripless securities of a person who is not a participant of the system.

(8) Nothing in subsections (5) and (6) shall affect any other legal right or remedy available to a person who has suffered any loss or damage by a payment, transfer or 15 settlement effected through a system established under subsection (1).

(9) Notwithstanding the provisions of any written law relating to the winding up of companies, if proceedings for the winding up of a participant of a system have 20 commenced—

(a) the Central Bank may do anything permitted or required by the rules of the system in order to net obligations incurred on or before the day on which the proceedings commenced;

25 (b) the obligations that are netted under the rules of the system shall be disregarded in the proceedings; and

(c) the netting made by the Central Bank and any payment made by the participant under the rules of 30 the system shall not be voidable in the proceedings.

(10) If proceedings for the winding up of a participant is commenced and a payment or settlement owed by such participant has been made as referred to in subsection (6) or (9), and if a payment or settlement of such funds or securities would have been void or voidable under any other written law if made outside the system, the liquidator of such 5 participant may recover from the person to whose benefit such payment or settlement was made such amount as would have been recoverable, if such payment or settlement had been made outside the system.

(11) Where any transaction effected through a system
10 established under subsection (1) is carried out electronically, such transaction shall not be denied legal effect, validity or enforceability solely on the ground that such transaction is carried out electronically or that the information relating to such transaction is maintained in the form of an electronic 15 record, and notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any other written law, such record may be tendered in evidence in proceedings before any court or tribunal.

(12) Any or all of the functions referred to in subsection (1) or (2) may be carried out by a body corporate authorized 20 for the purpose by the Governing Board, subject to such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Governing Board.

(13) The Central Bank shall provide facilities—

- 25 (a) for financial institutions other than licensed commercial banks, as may be approved by the Governing Board, to maintain accounts at the Central Bank for the purpose of settling securities transactions; and
- 30 (b) for financial institutions other than licensed commercial banks, as may be approved by the Governing Board to maintain accounts at the Central Bank for the purpose of holding scripless securities or clearing and settling transactions in scripless securities among 35 direct participants.

(14) (a) Any or all of the functions referred to in paragraph (d) of subsection (1), paragraph (a) of subsection (3) and subsection (13) may be carried out by a body corporate authorized for the purpose by the Governing Board, subject to such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Governing Board.

(b) The body corporate referred to in paragraph (a) may maintain an account with the Central Bank for the purpose of carrying out such functions.

10 61. (1) The Central Bank shall be responsible for the regulation, licensing, registration and oversight of payment, clearing and settlement systems as further specified in the Payment and Settlement Systems Act, No. 28 of 2005 or any other written law relating to regulation, licensing, registration and oversight of payment, clearing and settlement systems.

- 10 62. (1) The Central Bank shall be exclusively responsible for the regulation, licensing, registration and supervision of financial institutions. Such responsibility shall include the imposition of administrative measures within the meaning of section 109. Supervisory authority of the Central Bank.
- 15 (2) Any employee of the Central Bank or any other qualified person authorized by the Central Bank shall examine the books and accounts of financial institutions, at least once in each examination period, and shall make such further examinations in respect of any financial institution,
- 20 whenever required so to do by the Governor of the Central Bank.
- (3) A report on the results of each examination under this section shall be furnished to the Governing Board.
- (4) Any person authorized by the Central Bank may—
- 25 (a) administer oaths or affirmations, in accordance with the Oaths and Affirmations Ordinance (Chapter 17), to any director, officer, or employee of any financial institution;

5 (b) require any director, officer, or employee to furnish such information as such person may consider necessary for the purpose of ascertaining the true condition of the affairs of any such financial institution; or

 (c) require any director, officer, or employee to produce for inspection any book, record, or other document in his possession containing or likely to contain any information.

10 (5) It shall be the duty of every director, officer or employee of any financial institution to afford to the Central Bank or to any person authorized by the Central Bank an opportunity to examine books and records and its cash, assets, 15 liabilities and general condition, whenever so requested by the Central Bank.

(6) The Central Bank may, for the purpose of the continuous supervision of financial institutions—

20 (a) require any such financial institution, to furnish from time to time and within such period as may be specified, such statement and information relating to the business or affairs of such financial institution, as it may consider necessary to obtain for the purpose of ascertaining the true condition of the affairs of such financial institution;

25 (b) require the auditor of any such financial institution, to furnish to it within such period as may be specified, any information in relation to an audit carried out by such auditor of such financial institution, as it may consider necessary to obtain 30 for the purpose referred to in paragraph (a); and

 (c) examine the books and accounts kept by any such financial institution as it may deem necessary for the purpose of verifying the accuracy of any statement or information so furnished.

(7) Any employee of the Central Bank or any other qualified person authorized by the Central Bank shall 5 examine the books and accounts of any subsidiary or agency of any financial institution including the overseas operations of such financial institution, if directions in that behalf are given by the Central Bank.

(8) The Central Bank may exchange information and data
10 obtained under subsection (4) or (6), in whole or in part or aggregate form, from the classes of financial institutions determined in accordance with the nature of their business with competent authorities in or outside Sri Lanka that are entrusted with—

- 15 (a) the supervision of other financial institutions;
- (b) the supervision of financial markets;
