Read the following passage carefully and then answer the questions set out below :-

Most modern political ideals such, for example, as justice, liberty, constitutional government, and respect for the law or at least the definitions of them, began with the reflection of Greek thinkers upon the institutions of City State, But in the long history of political thought the meaning of such terms has been variously modified and always that meaning has to be understood in the light of the institutions by which the indicates were to be realized and of the society in which those institutions did their work. The Greek City States was so different from the political communities in which modern men live that it requires no small effort of the imagination to picture its social and political life. The Greek Philosophers were thinking of political practices far different from any that have prevailed commonly in modern word, and the whole climate of opinion in which the work was done was different. Their problems though not without their analogies in the preset, were never identical with modern problems and the ethical apparatus by which political life was evaluated and criticized varied widely from any that now prevails. In order to understand at all accurately what their theories meant it necessary first to realize at least roughly what kind of Institutions they had in view and what citizenship connected as an effect and as an ideal, to the public for whom they wrote. For this purpose the Government of Athens is especially important, partly because, it is the best known, but chiefly because it was an object of special concern to the greatest of Greek Philosophers.

As compared with modern states the ancient City-State was exceedingly small both in area and in population. The numbers were exceedingly uncertain but, a figure somewhat in excess of three hundred thousand would be approximately correct.
